Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

PRUDENCE of PEGGY

By Ethel Barrington

Copyright, 1904, by Ethel Barrington

Peggy dwelt with her maiden aunt. She had been brought up so irreproachably that her prudence passed into a proverb among her friends.

Peggy walked circumspectly through a careless world. So correct was she that her mere presence was the stamp of propriety, and had she been a little older she could have sidetracked all the young matrons as chaperons. Peggy represented the phenomenon of an old head on young shoulders. She looked ahead and was never taken at a disadvantage.

Old maids' children are proverbially flawless. Her aunt expected Peggy to love with discrimination and marry wisely, a fitting crown to so exemplary a girlhood, but the appearance of James Dunbar proved a stumbling block. Peggy lost her heart completely. Only her head saved her from its weak promptings.

"READ," SUGGESTED HER LOVER AS HE HELD THE COPY BEFORE HER.

"What you ask is impossible, Jim. On what should we live?"

"I've a hundred a month and am promised a raise."

"Which you can't spend until you earn. No, Jim, I'm not extravagant, but how could we live and save for a rainy day?"

"Not much to save at first. Surely you care for me, Peggy? Why, I worship you, so nothing else matters. I won't let you want, and we can wait for luxuries."

Peggy shook her head. The struggle was so great she dared not trust her voice.

"Well, be engaged—promise to wait for me."

"Oh, Jim, you tear at my"—

"Your prudence." Dunbar's voice grew a little hard.

"I meant heartstrings, but that does not matter. You are going to Cheltmore in charge of the telegraph office. The conditions will be new. We are both young. Aunt Margaret says we can afford to wait. When you get your raise come and ask"—

"Encouraging!" cried Dunbar, with scorn. "Work and plan for a girl who for 'prudent reasons' may be married before my aim is accomplished! If you are afraid to marry now, all right, but at least give me your promise or it all ends here."

"If you talk to me like this now, what will you do when we are married?"

Peggy in her anger still looked ahead. They were walking, and now they instinctively turned toward home.

Aunt Margaret was pleased with her niece's decision.

"You acted prudently, as always."

Great praise, yet somehow it failed to comfort Peggy. James Dunbar went to his new post without a word, and life became a dull, spiritless affair to Peggy. She lost her appetite and forgot how to laugh. Aunt Margaret, growing anxious, dosed her with old fashioned remedies, but neither referred to Peggy's decision.

At length came a break in the monotony. Stella Moss, recently married, wrote Peggy of her happiness and begged her company for a week. Peggy read, with amazement, that she lived at Cheltmore. James Dunbar had been appointed telegraph operator at Cheltmore. The opportunity could not be resisted. Peggy in a delirium of hopefulness accepted with her aunt's permission. Neither spoke of the possibilities of the visit up to the last day; then Aunt Margaret cleared her throat.

"My dear, your decision about Mr. Dunbar was prudent, but"— "I don't suppose I shall see him," ventured Peggy hypocritically.

"He may reopen the—er—subject Do not be hasty. I have been peculiarly blessed. I have the comfort of a daughter without the drawback of a husband. Every one is not so fortunate."

Peggy kissed her aunt, then, gathering her baggage, entered the cab. As she bought her ticket the agent inquired whether she wished Cheltmore in Pennsylvania or New York.

"Pennsylvania," said Peggy.

It seemed more expensive and a longer trip than she had anticipated, but it was not until late in the afternoon that she suspected a mistake. The conductor informed her that the train was due at 7. Peggy remembered Stella's writing that if she took the 3 o'clock train she would arrive in ample time for dinner.

The train had pulled out at 3:15, and Peggy had charged the discrepancy to her watch. Now she grew anxious. Her preparations had not been made with her usual forethought. She had cared only for the fact that she was going to Cheltmore and that Jim was there.

On reaching her destination the worst was soon known. There was no such address as Stella had given, and the directory proved that she did not reside in Cheltmore, Pa. Peggy, a little frightened, retraced her steps to the station to inquire for the next train for Philadelphia. The first person she ran into was Dunbar.

"Peggy—why, Peggy!"

Then, remembering their difference, he thrust his hands into his pockets and turned silent.

"Jim—I—I've done a stupid thing. I've come to the wrong Cheltmore." Peggy sank crestfallen into the nearest seat and strove to force back her tears. Dunbar's heart softened. "Explain, dear."

"I'm to visit Stella at Cheltmore. I—I thought there was only one. When is the next train back?"

"To Philadelphia?" inquired Dunbar slowly.

"Of course. How soon?"

He evaded the question.

"Peggy, is cold reason so satisfactory? Didn't you miss me just a little?"

"Oh, Jim, but the train. It will be so late. What will aunt say?"

"I'll satisfy all questions if you answer one of mine. Do you love me enough to share my struggles?"

Peggy tried to take her eyes from him, but he held her with the strength of love that shone in his. She smiled a little mistily. "It's not wisdom perhaps, but"—

"You trust me absolutely?" demanded Dunbar.

"For all time," murmured Peggy.

"Then come, dear!" He hurried her to the telegraph office, which was empty, and began rapidly ticking off a message. Then he scrawled a few words on a blank form.

"Sweetheart, prepare to be brave. Your reputation for prudence is shattered beyond repair. But as it brought you to me I have no complaint. There is no train to Philadelphia before noon tomorrow."

"No train"—she faltered.

"I hated to tell you. That's why I secured your promise first. I'll take you now to a friend of mine, Mrs. Davis. She's a monument of propriety."

"What will Aunt Margaret say?" repeated Peggy dismally.

"I'm not sure, but she rather likes me," said Dunbar, smiling. "Anyhow, we shall knew when we get her answer to my telegram."

"Yours—what did you say?"

"Read," suggested her lover as he held the copy before her and slipped one arm about her. "Peggy arrived—wedding tomorrow—come"—

"Oh, oh!" gasped Peggy in confusion. Then surrendering herself to his arms she whispered, "I love you."

"You love me, and I've earned promotion. We begin life with one hundred and fifty, so even 'prudence' may be appeased."

"But, Jim—tomorrow—I'm not ready—what will people say?"

"That 'Prudent Peggy' is only human after all, but as you change your name, what does it matter?"

Shy at Answering.

"Why is it that some men will not give a direct and unequivocal answer to even the simplest and most inconsequential questions put to them?" asked a thoughtful citizen. "It is a curious thing that you will find a great many men who simply will not give you a direct answer to the question, though there may exist absolutely no reason in the world for quibbling or for hesitating to answer without equivocation. I was just reading a story of a well known lawyer who is so in the habit of qualifying his answers that he will not tell a friend the time of day without in some way putting in a 'saving clause,' a remark that his watch is probably a little slow or a little fast or something of that sort. One of the presidents, I think it was Van Buren, was of this type and on one occasion refused to say whether the sun rose in the east or the west, remarking that east and west were purely relative terms and what might be east to one man might be west to another. Personally I have known many men who dropped into this habit, and, singularly, some of them have been the most positive and most aggressive characters I have ever known. They would assert things and back them up ignorantly. But ask them a question, and forthwith they would deal you out a qualified answer or often what would amount to no answer at all."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Special Prices For Undesirables.

New York restaurants that decline certain classes of trade have a special menu card that is placed in the hands of undesirable guests. The prices are marked away up to six or seven times the standard charges. A small steak costs from $1.50 to $3, three boiled eggs $1, an oyster stew 85 cents and a cup of tea or coffee half a dollar.

In one of these restaurants the other night two orientals who insisted on being served paid $3 for steaks that cost other customers not more than half a dollar. A colored couple dropped in for breakfast and read the special bill of fare with increasing astonishment.

"They don't charge 50 cents for a cup of coffee!" remarked the man incredulously, not understanding the situation.

"Le's gwine right away out o' yere," said the woman, showing her white teeth. "This ain't no fit place for decent cullud folks."—New York Press.

The Blind Man's Ears.

The degree to which the remaining senses can be trained when the sight is lost was illustrated the other morning by two blind men from a home for the blind. The men came from opposite directions, and as they approached each other a man standing on the corner was surprised to hear one of the blind men say: "Hello, Ed! What are you doing out this morning?" When the blind man was asked how he had known the other with a distance of five yards between them he answered: "By the sound of his cane, of course. I can tell at the distance of half a square the tap of the cane of any man in the home."—Philadelphia Record.

Grief and White Hair.

The mustaches of Henry [illegible] of Navarre are reported to have become partially white in a few [illegible] hearing of the revocation of the edict of Nemours. [illegible] hair of an English banker, owing to reverses in business, became gray in three days, according to the Encyclopedia Metropolitan. According to the same authority, a man about forty years old, who at his marriage had a dark head of hair, "on his return from his wedding trip had his hair turn so completely snow white, even to his eyebrows, that his friends almost doubted his identity."

Stings of Animals Are Similar.

In the examination of the poisonous machinery of insects and reptiles it is apparent that the destructive principle is the same in all and that the fang in all possesses a hollow through which the poison flows into the wound the moment the incision is made. The sting of the scorpion is precisely like the fang of the rattlesnake and performs its deadly work on the same mechanical principles.

A Good Precedent.

"My dear," said Mrs. Mildly as she dusted Mr. Mildly's table, "this would be a great deal cleaner world if there were not any men in it."

"If there were not," retorted Mr. Mildly, "the women would do exactly as the Lord did—hunt around for enough dirt to make a man out of."—Collier's.

No Such Thing as Overwork.

Do we suffer from overwork? A practical method of determining the measure of fatigue is to trace the tired feeling to its source. We may learn that what we have been calling overwork is nothing more nor less than worry or boredom. The human machine was built to work.—Dr. Cater.

Very Senseless.

He—Do you really think it hurts a man to be hit with one of Cupid's arrows? She—No. As a rule, he merely becomes senseless for a time.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Perfumed Cloth Is Now Sold.

Druggists in New York keep a perfumed cloth that is sold by the yard. It is imported and is by some process known to perfumers saturated with a sachet powder or essence that is very strong and lasting. It comes as high as $8 and $10 a yard, but is very wide, and one-fourth of a yard is a generous supply. Small pieces, three inches square or less, are sewed in hats, dress waists and skirts and are laid in glove and handkerchief boxes and chiffonier drawers. When it is considered that a fine sachet sells for $1, these perfumed lengths are really economical.

Sonoma Wants the Agricultural Farm.

THE idea of securing the Agricultural Farm for Sonoma Valley is a great one and with the proper support of the people of this county we will be able to get it.

In concentrating on the Lewis property for the site the promoters of the idea have acted wisely. If no other inducements were offered this magnificent property should sufficiently commend itself as being just the place for the proposed experimental work.

Much of the work to be carried on will be along the lines of irrigation agriculture and the abundance of water on the Lewis property will be particulary adapted to the needs of the workers. All we need is a concerted effort on the part of our own people to secure the farm.

It would be foolish to ask for help on the outside, for many of our neighboring counties would like to, capture the prize themselves, Sonoma county might never have thought of trying for it only other counties, Yolo for instance, sought our aid, whereupon our people began to ask themselves why they might not try for it, too, If it would be of advantage to Yolo county, it certainly would be to us.

Sonoma is one of the banner counties of the State and the fact that Luther Burbank can successfully carry on his great work here is of some significance,

Every one must realize what the establishment of the farm here would mean for this section.

We would not only have the advantage of increased population and the direct benefits of the great experiments that would go on in our midst, but the attention of a great part of the outside world would be called to our position on the map,

The commissioners appointed by the Legislature to select the site for the Farm will meet for the purpose of organization at Sacramento today. It is to be hoped that the Lewis proposition will be put before the gentlemen having the matter in hand. If rightly presented it seems that we should get them interested in the excellent site Sonoma has to offer.

Is Man the Toy of Destiny?

THERE have been many men, both of the past and the present generations, who have believed and still believe that man is the toy of destiny.

Destiny is supposed to be a condition alloted to man, which is inevitable and over which he has no control,

It is somewhat synonymous with fate and is handed down to us from the Greeks, who in their mythology recognized the Parcae or three sisters of fate.

We are not inclined to think that all things are determined for us but we would rather believe that we are all free agents and that our destiny lies within ourselves.

That is the modern tendency although some still cling to the old fate idea.

Destiny may be determined to a certain extent by our antecedents, but although our lives may be wisely planned by parents, still if the individual takes himself in hand and casts his fortunes in other channels than those intended for him he may change the course of his life.

Inherited characteristics influence to a certain extent a man's future. It is the destiny of a man to become strong or weak according to his antecedents. It is the destiny of a man to be born rich or poor according to the circumstances under which he is brought into the world.

And yet we all know that a man may overcome all things that may be inherited and assert himself and mould his own destiny. He may create for himself a brilliant future or a dark one. Destiny is really what we will ourselves to be.

The individual who does not look for the causes of his good or bad fortune cries out "it is my destiny," but as Emerson has said "Fate is unpenetrated causes."

If you are not fortunate. Do not sit idly by and rail at destiny. Look for the cause of your misfortune and you will see that its remedy lies within yourself. He is without hope who really believes in destiny, and "where there is no hope there can be no endeavor."

A NEW JERSEY magistrate has dubbed a woman's tongue "a concealed weapon." It is certainly "out of sight" to use when a woman gets angry at her husband.

A MACHINE has been invented that will tie up parcels. It is not credited with being able to tie a matrimonial knot that will last, however.

IT is said that people are getting old when they begin to talk to themselves. But when people begin to keep things to themselves it is a sure sign that they are getting wise.

THE resolution passed by the Trustees Wednesday night is a right move in the right direction if it means a bond election. Let the good work go on.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

In the absence of Judge Emmet Seawell, who was at St. Helena attending the funeral of his brother, Judge Burnett presided at the calling of the calendars in both departments of the Superior Court on Monday.

In Department One William H. Zartman was appointed executor of the will of the late Annie B. Vail, without bonds.

H. C. Colewell was appointed executor of the will of Albert Colwell in a bond of $250.

In a bond of $8,600 John V. Davis was named administrator on the estate of Isaiah Thomas.

The bondsmen of William Burgett in the estate of J. F. Keller were released from the bond.

The sale of horses to C. W. Shields was confirmed in the estate of Harris Bartlett.

A sale of four shares of bank stock in the estate of Peter H. Ricklifs was confirmed.

The account of the estate of J. L. Martin, a minor, was settled and allowed, and the distribution was continued to May 8th.

The property of the estate of J. Marzell was set aside to the minors.

These matters were continued: Estates of David Schwan to May 1, J. W. Murdock to April 17; Spiach vs. Spiach, Schlobhon vs. Moore, Mary E. Roberts vs. Robert Forsyth, B. K. Clark vs. Petaluma & Santa Rosa railway, all to April 10th.

The suit of Mrs. M. E. Peterson vs. City of Santa Rosa was placed on the calendar for April 10th.

The final account of the estate of Alex Skaggs, a minor, was settled and allowed and the guardian was discharged.

In Department Two, the demurrer in the action of Gobbi vs. Gobbi was overruled and ten days allowed to answer.

The suit of Harwood vs. Haehl was put on the calendar for April 10th to be set.

The motion to strike out costs was granted in the suit of Barham vs. Barham.

These matters were continued: State vs. McDonald, indictment of Grand Jury charging assault with a deadly weapon, to April 10; Huntington vs. Pinney et al., to April 17; Wickersham estates to April 10; Issac Wright vs. Jud Cramer Mining Company suit to et aside a deed on ground of fraud etc., to April 10th.

A Good Investment

A fine piece of income property is offered for sale this week in these columns. The property consists of 71 acres of land, forty acres of which is in hay, a twelve room furnished house, a three room cottage, barn, outhouses, etc. There are living springs and abundance of wood on the place, orchard and garden. Also, horses, cows, four vehicles, farming implements, etc. As a summer resort the place can at the present time accomodate 20 people. This place, in order to make a quick sale, is offered for $6,000. One-half down and balance at 6 per cent. Title perfect. Address H. H. Granice, Sonoma.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

The Santa Rosa Planing mills owned by P. H. Kroncke burned down Tuesday morning. The loss was over $10,000.

One of the new oil burning engines made its initial run on the Sonoma Valley branch of the California Northwestern Sunday.

A. Kingsbury, the directory man, was in town Saturday and reports considerable increase in the population during the past two years.

Steel and brown colorings are very fashionable this spring. I have them in great variety from $12.00 up. H. F. Lord, Castax building, Sonoma. *

George Peterson of Vineburg is the local agent for the Samson Double-Gear Windmill. Mr. Peterson is a first-class plumber and will be found a good man to do business with.

Guy Weems repairs bicycles, sewing machines and all kinds of machinery. First-class mechanic. Prices reasonable, and work attended to promptly. Leave orders at Chapman's store. *

Our attention has been called to an error made by the Santa Rosa Republican to the effect that President Foster was going to buy Agua Caliente. The Republican evidently does not know that Agua Caliente is not Boyes' Hot Springs. The two resorts are altogether seperate properties and Agua Caliente's proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, have no idea of selling.

There is no better place to stop in San Francisco than at the Langham Hotel, corner of Ellis and Mason streets. It is six stories high, fire-proof, convenient to all attractions, close to all car lines, and offers all the advantages of superior hotel service at small cost. The rooms are large, clean and well ventilated and the management courteous, polite and hospitable. Write for booklet and rates. *

That Tired Feeling

Is a Common Spring Trouble.

It's a sign that the blood is deficient in vitality, just as pimples and other eruptions are signs that the blood is impure.

It's a warning, too, which only the hazardous fail to heed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

CITY TRUSTEES IN REGULAR SESSION

Pass Water Ordinance and Adopt Resolution Acknowledging Necessity of New City Hall.

The City Trustees held their regular April meeting Wednesday night. Trustees Poppe, Pinelli, Hotz, McDonell and Breitenbach were all present. Trustee Poppe presided. The following claims were allowed:

Robert Poppe, salary, $25.00; H. H. Granice, publishing, $15.00; V. Jensen, labor, $1.00; D. Valente, cleaning fire apparatus in January, $3.00; Jas. H. Albertson, salary, $15.00; Sonoma Valley Co., electric lights, $35.00. Total $94.60.

A communication was received from Mrs. N. Davis asking permission for a number of residents to lay water pipes in the cemetery. As all expenses were to be paid by those using the water, the city granted the request, the work to be done under the supervision of the cemetery committee and extending the privilege of using the water connection to any one paying the pro rata.

The ordinance fixing the water rate was adopted and passed to print in the Index-Tribune.

The lighting contract was continued for another month.

A resolution was introduced by Trustee McDonell and seconded by Trustee Hotz setting forth the necessity of providing ways and means for the building and equipment of a new City Hall, which is indispensable to the city of Sonoma.

The resolution was unanimously adopted. This is understood to be the first step toward calling a bond election.

The matter of cleaning the walks in the plaza was opposed by Trustee Breitenbach on the ground that there were not sufficient funds for the purpose. No action was taken.

It was moved by Trustee Pinelli that a hose be bought by the city to connect the hydrants with a sprinkling cart. The motion was passed and it was also decided to have a street sprinkling test for two days under the supervision of the street committee.

A Lively Industry

Adam Adler's big planing mill has been running in full blast for over a week now. The mill is equipped with fine machinery and is run by electricity. When the power is turned on and the big wheels and belts are set in motion, the mill is the scene of great activity. Mr. Adler turns out all kinds of beautiful mill work and has already a large number of orders on hand.

Has Perfected Title.

L. Quartaroli has perfected the title of the Sonoma House property which he lately purchased. The title was perfected through the purchase of the two-tenth interests of Thos. Glynn and Essie Green, heirs of the late Michael Glynn.

Funeral of Louis Maroni.

Louis Maroni, well known in this place and Kenwood, passed away in Santa Rosa Friday.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended.

The remains were first taken to Fraternity Hall where the honors of the Druidic Order were given them. Later the funeral was held from St. Rose's Church, Rev. Father Leahy officiating.

COMMITTEE ON UNIVERSITY FARM.

Gentlemen Named Who Will Work Matter up For Entire County.

Chairman Frank Denman of the County Board of Trade and Progressive Association has appointed the following gentlemen on a committee to consider ways and means of securing the University Farm for this Valley: L. W. Burris, C. E. Haven, A. B. Lemmon, J. S. Swett, F. T. Duhring, George Kingsbury and Robert A. Poppe.

Already competitors for the Farm have begun to "knock" our proposition, but we have so much to offer that the knocking will probably be of no avail.

The Oakland Tribune maintains that Sonoma is too far away from the University center for the Farm location, declaring that if it were taken so far away it would tend to disrupt the Agricultural Department. This is a poor argument and should carry no weight.

If agricultural students want real agricultural life they must get far away from the big centers like Oakland and San Francisco. They should have the benefit of real rural life in all its simplicity. In fact it would be a great deal better if the whole University were farther from the city than it is. As for the Agricultural Farm's situation, there is no question but it should be in the midst of real agricultural activity.

Franchise Goes Over.

The electric railway matter, which has been before the Supervisors of the county for some time, has gone over for another month. Messrs. Schocken and Weber, the applicants for the franchise, are awaiting the granting of it in order that they may begin work on the road without delay.

O. C. Baldwin has written his acceptance of the franchise recently awarded him by the Board of Supervisors for an electric railroad from this place to Hauto's landing.

Guests at Buena Vista.

Among those who have been guests at Buena Vista Castle recently are Robert F. Kehoe, San Francisco; John White, San Francisco, and the Misses White, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Martel, San Francisco, Mrs. Ida B. Smith, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Capt. Wilson, Washington, D. C.

The Wilsons are touring Southern California at present but are so delighted with Sonoma Valley that they will return for a two-weeks visit at the Castle.

Weed Visits Burbank.

Benj. Weed, formerly of this place but now occupying a confidential position with A. Schilling in San Francisco, went up to Santa Rosa Monday to see Luther Burbank.

Hurt in a Runaway

Mrs. Smith of Schellville, while driving through town late Friday afternoon, was thrown from the rig she was driving and painfully injured. She was badly bruised about the face.

Native Sons Banquet

The Native Sons held a grand banquet at the Toscano Hotel Monday night which was largely attended.

There were toasts and oratory galore and the banquet itself bore good evidence of mine host Ciucci's skill as a caterer. The evening was throughly enjoyable.

The guest of honor was Grand Trustee Bismarck Bruck of St. Helena.

GLEN ELLEN

By Aurora.

Mr. F. Quein transacted business in Santa Rosa Thursday.

Mrs. Chas. Poppe and Mrs. Marten visited Santa Rosa Thursday.

Mr. Mike Gordenker spent the past week with his parents in this place.

J. V. Miner, the well known orchardist, visited the county seat Thursday.

Mrs. Emily Crepin, who has been ill several weeks, is able to be up and around.

Mr. Cobb, brother of our popular station agent, left Thursday to accept a position up the coast.

Mrs. Lane and family, after a short visit here, returned to San Francisco Sunday.

Chas. C. Weise caught fifty trout in one of the small streams near here last Saturday.

Mr. West was up from San Francisco last Sunday looking after the interests of Mrs. Annie McIntyre.

Miss Carrie Lemoine came up from San Rafael Friday evening and remained until Sunday with her parents.

Mr. McCartney has purchased twenty acres of land from Will Ashe in the foothills east of Mrs. Delmar's place.

Mr. William Jones has erected a windmill on his neat little home and will now have abundance of water for his truck and berry patches.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ashe, who have been spending the winter in San Francisco, returned to their country home last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ashe are very popular and their many friends are glad to welcome them back.

Miss Leslie Trowbridge of this place and Mr. William Brown of Oakland will be married Sunday at the home of the bride. Miss Elliott Trowbridge will be bridesmaid and Mr. Seymour Trowbridge will be best man. The Rev. Mr. Brown of the Unitarian church of Berkeley will officiate at the ceremony.

Oh, come to the Hard Times dance, friends,
The Ladies' Improvement Club say;
Not in silks and satins, but looking any old way.
Instead of a decolette gown of gauze
And an Easter hat from Paree,
Give the money to the cause,
As improver you should be.
Suffer a little hard times just now,
For later things will be humming.
Though Hard Times dances are announced
Better times are coming.
Though dressed in your oldest clothes, I bet,
You'll surely have the best time yet.

AURORA.

Glen Ellen, April 8, 1905.

Clerk Wickham of the California Home was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Bird, who was to speak at the Woman's Club today, will be unable to come, so the afternoon has been postponed.

How's This?

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT BOARD OF TRADE

Messrs. Briggs and Luce Will Address the Meeting Thursday Night.

Thursday night, the 13th inst., the Board of Trade will meet again. This time a permanent organization will be effected and a good representation of the people of this valley is desired.

The object of the Board is to advertise Sonoma and surrounding country.

Mr. Arthur R. Briggs of the California State Board of Trade will address the meeting Thursday night as will also Arthur Luce of the County Board of Trade. Both gentleman are splendid speakers.

Club Notes.

The Woman's Club met Saturday and the Executive Board announced a few changes in the sectional work. Mrs. Watriss was made leader of the Educational section, Miss C. C. Granice of the Landmarks section, Miss Mabel Lowell of the Literary section, Mrs. A. Bates of the Plaza section. All section leaders are now members of the Executive Board.

Today there will be a social gathering of the Club and some invited guests in the club rooms. A feature of the afternoon will be an interesting talk on the "Newspapers and Magazines of our Country" by Mrs. Bird of Alameda, who is a very entertaining talker.

An entertainment and dance for the benefit of the fountain, for which the contract has been let, will be given on April 28th.

The Glen Ellen Ladies Improvement Club is doing excellent work. Its members are great enthusiasts and will give another benefit shortly in the way of a Hard Times party.

PERSONAL MENTION

Peter Kiser, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is improving.

Adam Adler, the popular lumber merchant, who has been on the sick list, is on deck again.

The many friends of Mrs. Pauline McMullin will be sorry to learn that she has been ill with la grippe.

G. Della Maggioria & Co., the new owners of the Sonoma Soda Works, contemplate many improvements in their plant this spring.

Dr. M. F. McTaggart, formerly of this place but now of Reno, Nevada, arrived in St. Helena Thursday with his daughter Geneva and is stopping at the Sanitarium. Dr. McTaggart has been very ill.

THE BUSHIDO.

Moral Doctrines of the Samurai That Rule In Japan.

"The bushido" means "the moral doctrines of the samurai," and they are obeyed by all the statesmen, soldiers and scholars of Japan of the present time with as much holy respect as the Christian's reverence for the Bible and its teachings. In Japan Buddhism is the popular religion, but Buddhist teachings are not respected by educated men or soldiers. In fact, most of them are atheists or agnostics, who do not believe in any religion but the doctrines of "the bushido."

"The bushido," for instance, teaches a man or woman to have the courage to perform the hara-kiri if he or she commits a serious offense. The spirit of this doctrine is that the offender should kill himself instead of waiting to be executed by the law, which latter is considered in Japan as one of the most cowardly thing. "The bushido" also teaches that the life of a Japanese is a gift of the holy mikado, and if the country needs the lives of her people they should be given gladly, for that is only to return to the mikado what they have received from him.

To die on the battlefield is the only key for a Japanese to find his way to his Shinto heaven, and the soldiers who were not killed on the battlefield are considered unfortunate. It is maintained in Japan that if a man gives you a favor or money or pleasure you should return it with more than what was given to you.—Hydesaburo Ohashi in Leslie's Weekly.

LONDON IN 1700.

When Traitors' Heads Adorned London Bridge and Temple Bar.

London in 1700 was a comparatively small city of about 600,000 inhabitants, the rough and ill kept main roads to which had been but slightly improved since Tudor times. The ghastly spectacle of many of the trees on the Southwark road bending under their burden of hanged men had indeed been slightly modified, but none the less the decomposing heads of "traitors" still filled the atmosphere about London bridge and Temple bar with myriads of baneful microbes.

Our immediate forbears were evidently not overparticular about sight and smells. They were accustomed to see men sitting in the pillory pelted with rotten eggs and possibly included among their immediate circle not a few who had been deprived of their noses and ears for expressing too freely their opinions, political and religious.

The drains were in an appalling condition. The innumerable churchyards were so full of coffins that they often projected through the turf. Bear and bull baiting, dog fights and boxing matches were attended even by royalty as late as 1820, and five years later all the "dandies" in London were paying high prices to stand in the carts round Tyburn to behold twenty-two of their fellow creatures hanged for misdemeanors which in our time would be punished with a few days' imprisonment.—Saturday Review.

Lions Like Lavender Water.

The old theory of animal liking for scents denied them any share in such pleasures unless they suggested the presence of their food or prey. But such a reason can hardly be alleged for a lion's liking for lavender water. The writer, wishing to test for himself the reported fondness of many animals for perfumes, paid a series of visits to the zoological garden provided with bottles of scent and a packet of cotton wool and there tried some harmless experiments which apparently gave great satisfaction to many of the inhabitants. Lavender water was the favorite scent, and most of the lions and leopards showed unqualified pleasure when the scent was poured on the wool and put into their cages.—Spectator.

Carnival Dancing.

Among the most picturesque of the carnival festivities of Europe must be classed that of the Gilles, or dancing men, of Binche, in Hainault. These men, 200 strong, in their remarkable headdress of tall ostrich feathers and their lace decked costume fringed with bells, dance from an appointed place to the town hall, bombarding the spectators with oranges as they go. Arrived at the town hall, the public joins in the fun, and soon some 5,000 persons—men, women and children—may be seen gayly waltzing around the Grande place.

A Real Miser.

They were seated at the supper table.

"Say, ma," queried little Dolly, "what is a miser?"

"A miser, my dear," answered the diplomatic mother as she glanced across the table at her husband, "is a man who thinks his wife's hat should not cost any more than his own."

Costly Pointers.

Miss Fancier—A pure blooded terrier like Buttons is about as costly a dog as there is, Jack. Her Escort—No. There is one that is much more expensive, the Wall street pointer that a friend gives you.—Puck.

Cause For Alarm.

Pennibus—Poor Scribbles is worried. Inkerton—What's the trouble? Pennibus—He's afraid he has lost his cunning as a humorist. The English magazines are beginning to copy his jokes.—Atlanta Constitution.

Family Objections Respected.

Old Friend—Why didn't you marry Mr. Nicefello? Sweet Girl—His father objected. Old Friend—I shouldn't have cared for that. Sweet Girl—Y-e-s, but he said he would cut him off with a shilling.—Good News.

Anger begins in folly and ends in repentance.—Pythagoras.

MULLIGAN'S ANTICS.

They Excited Casey's Curiosity and He Got an Explanation.

Casey and Mulligan lived in adjoining tenements. Casey was looking out of his front window one afternoon when he saw Mulligan go through the street door on the run. In a few moments he returned, still running. On the next night Casey saw Mulligan repeat the performance. Casey told his wife there must be sickness in the Mulligan household, but Mrs. Casey said no. On the third day Casey again saw Mulligan dash out of the door and return on the run. On the fourth night Casey saw Mulligan leave the house with a skipping rope and go down the street skipping the rope. When he returned he was still skipping the rope. This was the last straw to Casey's already overburdened curiosity. He watched and when Mulligan was out went to his home.

"Is there anythin' I can do for you, Mrs. Mulligan?" he asked her. "What for?" asked Mrs. Mulligan. "Shure, and your husband has gone daft," said Casey. "I seen him run out of the house and run back ag'in three nights and the fourth go out skippin' a rope." "Oh, that's nothin'," said Mrs. Mulligan. "The doctor was here last week, Mike bein' by way of ailin', and gave him four pills. 'Take three runnin' and skip the fourth,' sez he, 'and that's what Mike has been doin'.'"—New York Tribune.

SPEED OF A RATTLER.

Why It Is Easy to Shoot Off the Head of One of These Snakes.

In this wide world there are several things that are swifter than a rattlesnake, writes A. W. Rolker in Pearson's, but they can probably be counted on the fingers of one hand. One of these things is a bullet, whereby hangs the explanation why it is easy to shoot the head off a rattle, although a marksman finds it difficult to place a bullet along the fat seven foot line between the neck of the reptile and the tip of its tail.

It has long been regarded as a curious coincidence that even the man not famed for accuracy has had no trouble in blowing the head off a diamond back. In the diamond back country only one explanation is offered for this—it is the snake and not the man that does the aiming.

At close quarters the instant the muzzle of a six shooter is thrust toward a rattlesnake the infallible eye catches the range, and in the fraction of a twinkle the deadly head has aligned itself. As the gun roars and darts its tongue of flame the head of the creature is torn clean as if severed with a knife, and the viper lies writhing, emitting a defiant rattle even as its grim, relentless heart ceases its beat.

CONSTANT BIRDS.

Baldheaded Eagles and Golden Woodpeckers Mate but Once.

The married life of most birds could be taken for a model even by members of the human family. There is, for instance, the staid, dignified and homely baldheaded eagle, the glorious emblem of the American republic. He mates but once and lives with his one mate until he or she dies. If left a widower—even a young widower—the baldheaded eagle never mates again. He remains alone and disconsolate in the nest on the rock crag or in the branches of a tall pine that formed his domicile while his mate was alive. No other female eagle can tempt him to forsake his disconsolate life. With him, once a widower, always a widower.

The golden woodpeckers live in a happy married state, mating but once. If the male dies his mate's grief is lasting, and she lives a widowed bird the rest of her life. So, too, the male woodpecker never seeks another mate after the death of his own. He taps on a tree beside their nest day and night trying to recall her; then at length, discouraged and hopeless, he becomes silent and never recovers his gayety.—Chicago Tribune.

A Birdlime Tree.

There is in New Zealand a tree which proves fatal to birds in an altogether singular way. The seed vessels give off a sticky fluid, and many a fly finds itself imprisoned in the gummy stuff. These flies in their turn attract small birds, and they also get so covered with the fluid that they are unable to flutter. The fruit, too, is an object of desire, and birds come, as it were, glued to the ripe clusters which they proposed to eat. The wee birds cannot escape without help, so lie there a prey to other animals.

Degrees of Comparison.

On public occasions Count von Moltke was frequently called upon to propose the health of the Emperor William I. At small gatherings he would confine himself to the formula, "Long live the emperor!" On more important occasions he would say, "Long life to his majesty the emperor." At large public banquets the toast culminated in the words, "Long life to his majesty the emperor, our most gracious king and master."

More Satisfactory.

"Why don't you try to make a name that will be respected by future generations?"

"My dear sir," answered Mr. Dustin Stax, "my vainity does not go so far. I am content to make a fortune that is respected by the present generation."—Washington Star.

Conjugal Agreement.

Mr. Winkle—There, I've forgotten to post your letter again. I am very absentminded. Mrs. Winkle—Yes, your mind has been absent a good many years.

Traits of Indians.

The Indian believes when a man is so unfortunate as to lose an eye he is entitled to two wives, and he generally gets them.

The wolf has a regular name and is never mentioned as a wolf, but is accredited with having a soul and is considered almost human.

An Indian never goes on a hunt soon after attending a funeral, knowing that game will detect his whereabouts readily after being at a funeral.

The medicine man always takes charge of all in camp when on a hunt. He places his medicines in the ground with great pomp before building his campfire. The fire is never removed while the hunt is in progress.

Knowing that a shot through the molt of a deer is fatal, the Indian always roasts and eats this part before he eats his supper after bringing in the carcass.—Kansas City Journal.

Burns Got the Silver.

Bobby Burns' associations with Carlisle were of an active personal character, as there are interesting anecdotes to prove. It was at Carlisle that he fell into the company of three farmers, and in the course of their conviviality the farmers agreed with Burns to try their hand at verse-making, and all four deposited half a crown on the table for the one who wrote the best. Burns, by the way, on entering the room was welcomed by the others as "Johnny Peep." What the farmers wrote is not known, but the following was Burns' production, and of course he lifted the "siller:"

I, Johnny Peep,
Saw three fat sheep,
And these three sheep saw me;
Half a crown apiece
Will pay for their fleece,
And so Johnny Peep gocs free.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best and Mo t Popular

"Mothers buy it for croupy children, railroad men buy it for severe coughs and elderly people buy it for la grippe," say Moore Bros, Eldon, Iowa. "We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than any other kind. It seems to have taken the lead over several other good brands." There is no question but this medicine is the best that can be procured for coughs and colds, whether it be a child or an adult that is afflicted. It always cures and cures quickly. Sold by Shoults & Co.

Sonoma is to have another barber, making five instead of two up to a year ago.

About Rheumatism

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by Shoults & Co.

The trout streams are still to high for good fishing.

Rheumatic Pains Quickly Relieved.

The exruciating pains characteristic of rheumatism and sciatica are quickly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The great pain relieving power of the liniment has been the surprise and delight of thousand of sufferers The quick relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Womans Club of Glen Ellen will give a Hard Times Ball next month.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Troubles—No Family Can Afford to be Without It.

"I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as one of the very best remedies for bowel troubles," says Mr. W. J. Hanlon, editor of the Dispatch, Cella, Georgia. "I make this statement after having used the medicine in my family for several years. I am never without it." No family can afford to be without a bottle of this remedy in the house. It is certain to be needed sooner or later. For sale by Shoults & Co.

Cures Coughs and Colds.

Mrs. C. Peterson, 625 Lake st., Topeka, Kansas, says: "Of all cough remedies Ballard's Horehound Syrup is my favorite. It has done and will do all that is claimed for it—to speedily cure all coughs and colds—and it is so sweet and pleasant to the taste. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Mont Akers, Deputy County Assessor, is making his rounds.

A Dandy for Burns.

Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. 'It is a dandy for burns.' Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, barns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Health is Youth.

Herbine, taken every morning before breakfast, will keep you in robust health and fit you to ward off disease. It cures constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, fever skin, liver and kidney complaints. It purifies the blood and clears the complexion. Mrs. D. W. Smith, Whitney, Texas, writes April 3, 1902: "I have used Herebine and find it the best medicine for constipation and liver troubles. It does all you claim for it. I can highly recommend it. 50c. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Ballard's Horehound Syrup

Immediately relieves hoarse, croupy coughs, oppressed, rattling, rasping and difficult breathing. Henry B. Stearns, Druggist, Shullsburg, Wis., writes, May 25th, 1902: "I have been selling Ballard's Horehound Syrup for two years, and have never had a preparation that has given better satisfaction. I notice that when I sell a bottle they come back for more. I can honestly recommend it." 25c, 50c, and $1. Sold by L. S. Simmons.
